

2005 Midwestern Section Awards

2005 Innovation in Dairy Research Award Sponsor: Land O'Lakes, Purina Feed, LLC

Jeffrey M. DeFrain received a B.S. (1999) and M.S. (2001) in animal science from Kansas State University and then obtained a Ph.D. under Dr. Arnold Hippen at South Dakota State University. During his Ph.D. program, Jeff conducted a series of experiments to evaluate the effects of diets formulated to increase the supply of ketones or ketone precursors on the carbohydrate status of transition dairy cows. This research contributed to a better understanding of the interactions between diet formulation, rumen epithelial ketogenesis, glycemic status, and animal productivity of transition dairy cows. Jeff received his Ph.D. in animal science in December 2004, and is currently employed by Hubbard Dairy Services as a dairy technical consultant.

2005 Young Animal/Dairy Science Leader Outstanding Researcher Award Sponsor: DSM Nutritional Products, Inc.

Elisabeth Huff-Lonergan received her B.S. in food science in 1988 from the University of Missouri/Columbia. At Iowa State University, she obtained her M.S. in 1991 and her Ph.D. in 1995 with a double major in muscle biology and meat science, minor in biochemistry. In 1995, she became assistant professor in the Animal and Dairy Science department at Auburn University. She joined the department of Animal Science at Iowa State University in 1998 and she was promoted to associate professor in 2004. Her research focuses on biological mechanisms within muscle that affect meat quality. She has authored/co-authored 30 peer-reviewed papers and book chapters, over 50 abstracts, and 1 patent. She has been principal investigator or co-principal investigator on 33 grant proposals totaling over $1.9 million.

2005 National Pork Board—Research Award Sponsor: National Pork Board

Jonathan Holt is originally from Worthington, Minnesota. He received an Associate of Arts degree from Minnesota West Community and Technical College in 2000. He completed his B.S. degree in agriculture/animal science at the University of Minnesota in 2002. In 2004, he completed his Master of Science degree in animal science at the University of Minnesota. His thesis work focused on enhancing sow welfare with high fiber diets and frequent feeding. Currently, Jonathan is pursuing a Ph.D. in swine nutrition at North Carolina State University.

2005 ASAS/ADSA Outstanding Young Agribusiness Award Sponsor: ExSeed Genetics

Thomas A. Rathje is with Danbred North America. Dr. Rathje demonstrates commitment to the U.S. swine industry beyond responsibilities to his employer through participation in scientific meetings and service on the board of directors of the National Swine Improvement Federation and committees of the American Society of Animal Science. Tom played a key role in the development of Danbred, being responsible for implementation of the Danish breeding system in North American nucleus herds and customer production systems. Dr. Rathje received his B.S. degree in animal science from Iowa State University (1989) and his M.S. and Ph.D. degrees in animal breeding and genetics from the University of Nebraska (1991 and 1995, respectively).

2005 Young Animal/Dairy Science Leader
Outstanding Extension Award
Sponsor: Land O'Lakes, Purina Feed LLC

Kenneth Stalder is a native of Iowa. He received an Associate degree in farm operations and a B.S. in animal science from Iowa State in 1985 and 1987, respectively.

Dr. Stalder worked as Livestock Production Specialist for a large cooperative in Northeast Iowa before embarking on his graduate degrees. He received his M.S. in agriculture at Western Kentucky in 1992. Dr. Stalder received his Ph.D. from Iowa State University in animal breeding and genetics in 1995. He served as Extension Swine Specialist at the University of Tennessee from 1995 to 2003. He joined the Department of Animal Science staff at Iowa State University in 2003 as Extension Swine Specialist. Dr. Stalder is married to Cheryl, and they have three children, Lauren, Sam, and Will.

2005 National Pork Board—Education Award
Sponsor: National Pork Board

Dr. Jodi Sterle is an associate professor and Extension swine specialist, and as such, is responsible for swine education programs throughout Texas, from large operations in the Texas panhandle to the more than 26,000 youth involved in the show pig industry. Sterle's program focuses on quality assurance and reproductive management. Sterle received a B.S. from Michigan State University and an M.S. and Ph.D. from the University of Missouri. Sterle is one of four academic advisors for 750 undergraduates, teaches the honors section of Introductory Animal Science, and has developed a course embracing the history and heritage of livestock through various forms of art. Sterle also coaches the Meat Animal Evaluation team and advises the Saddle and Sirloin Club.

2005 Young Animal/Dairy Science Leader
Outstanding Teacher Award
Sponsor: ADM Alliance Nutrition, Inc.

Brian D. Nielsen majored in animal science (with minor in chemistry), graduating with a B.S. (1990) from University of Wisconsin—River Falls. Later, from Texas

A&M University, Brian earned his M.S. (1992) and Ph.D. (1996) degrees in equine nutrition and exercise physiology. He joined Michigan State University's Department of Animal Science in 1996 and now teaches Equine Exercise Physiology (a course he developed) and Advanced Horse Management (a course he completely remodeled). In addition, he mentors many independent study and undergrad uate research projects. He also lectures on horses in Animal Science for Veterinarians in the professional veterinary curriculum. During his 8 years at Michigan State, he has received research funding of more than $450,000 as principal investigator or co-principal investigator. He is author or co-author of 19 peer-reviewed articles, 34 speaking engagements and papers in conference proceedings, 55 scientific abstracts, and 36 popular press articles. He is certified by the American Registry of Professional Animal Scientists and is a board-certified diplomate in the American College of Animal Nutritionists. Brian and his wife Miriam reside in Mason, Michigan, with daughter Irene Mae.

2005 National Pork Board—Research Award
Sponsor: National Pork Board

Denise Beaulieu received her Bachelor of Science in agriculture and Master of Science from the University of Saskatchewan in Saskatoon. Her Ph.D. was awarded by The Ohio State University. Following that, she spent 6 years at the University of Illinois, initially as a postdoctoral research associate and then as a visiting scientist. She is presently employed at the Prairie Swine Centre, Inc., in Saskatoon as a research assistant.

2005 Midwestern Section Student Award Winners

Graduate Student Research Paper Competition—Ph.D. Division Sponsored by Akey

First Place

Nathaniel David Fastinger was raised on a 125-sow farrow-to-finish swine farm in Northwest Ohio. He was active in 4-H and FFA, where he received his American Farmer Degree in 1993. Nathan graduated in 1997 with a B.S. degree in animal science from The Ohio State University. He then entered graduate school under the direction of Dr. Donald Mahan, focusing on nonruminant nutrition. Nathan earned an M.S. degree in 2000 and is in the final stages of his Ph.D. at Ohio State. His thesis research has focused on developing value-added distillers dried grains with solubles for use in nonruminant animal diets. Nathan's career goal is to obtain an Assistant Professor position focusing on nonruminant nutrition.

Second Place

Kim S. Hargrave, University of Nebraska

Third Place

Daryl Kleinschmit grew up on a farm near Bow Valley, Nebraska. He attained his B.S. in animal science from the University of Nebraska–Lincoln in 2000 and worked in the ruminant nutrition laboratory. He earned his M.S. in animal science from the University of Delaware in 2003. Most of his research pertained to the use of chemical and microbial additives that alter fermentation and improve aerobic stability in silage. Daryl began his Ph.D. work in dairy science at South Dakota State University in 2003, and his research pertains to increasing the utilization of corn distillers grains in dairy cattle. In addition to research, Daryl has also taught and guest-lectured in ruminant nutrition and microbiology classes.

Graduate Student Research Paper Competition—M.S. Division Sponsored by DeKalb Feeds, Inc.

First Place

Jill M. Koch was raised on a poultry farm in Northeastern Ohio. She was a member of the Mahoning County 4-H and Farm Bureau Youth throughout high school. She earned a B.S. degree in animal sciences with a minor in agricultural business and applied economics from The Ohio State University. As an undergraduate, Jill did internships in the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology and with the Ohio Department of Health. Currently, she is completing a Master's degree in reproductive physiology at West Virginia University. She recently reported that melengestrol acetate could be used as an alternative method to induce molting in laying hens. She plans to continue in the Ph.D. program in reproductive physiology at West Virginia University.

Second Place

Danyelle M. Dauch grew up working on her family's hog farm near Bellevue in northwest Ohio. With interests in developing a career in either extension or swine production, Danyelle chose to major in animal sciences at The Ohio State University, where she received her B.S. degree in 2003. She is currently working on her Master's degree in reproductive physiology at The Ohio State University under the guidance of Drs. Karol Fike and Michael Day. Her thesis work focuses on the effects of divergent selection for insulin-like growth factor-I on endocrine function in beef heifers. After graduation, Danyelle will pursue a career focused on either teaching or extension with the aim of promoting agriculture in Ohio.

Third Place

Kiho Lee was born in Seoul, Korea. In 2003, he completed his B.S. degree in animal science at Seoul National University. During his undergraduate studies, he received several national scholarships. His interest in animal cloning was inspired by Dr. C. K. Lee, who taught reproductive physiology at Seoul National University. Lee started his Master's program in animal science at Purdue University under the supervision of Dr. Zoltan Machaty. His thesis is based on the utilization of nondifferentiated cells in porcine nuclear transfer. Kiho will finish his Master's degree in May 2005 and pursue his Ph.D. under Dr. Machaty. For his Ph.D. project, Lee will focus on the production of transgenic pigs used as biomedical models.

Undergraduate Student Research Paper Competition Sponsored by Boehringer Ingelheim Vetmedica, Inc.

First Place

Allison Meyer, the daughter of Alan and Kathy Meyer of Greensburg, Indiana, is a senior at Michigan

State University, majoring in animal science. Allison has always been active in the beef industry, growing up on her family's purebred Shorthorn operation and becoming involved in junior organizations such as the American Junior Shorthorn Association, for which she served as President. At Michigan State, Allison has continued this involvement as a member of the Livestock Judging Team, Block and Bridle Club, and an agriculture-focused study abroad program to Europe. She has also done undergraduate research as a professorial assistant in Dr. Gretchen Hill's Trace Mineral Nutrition lab for three years. Allison plans to begin graduate study in cow-calf nutrition in the fall.

Second Place

Erin Carney, Kansas State University

Third Place, tie

Kara Behlke, University of Nebraska
Jackie Allen, Kansas State University

UNDERGRADUATE ACADEMIC AWARDS

In 2005, the following seniors, juniors, and sophomores at universities and colleges were recognized for outstanding achievement in the field of animal science and given the American Society of Animal Science Undergraduate Scholar Award.

The Executive Board and membership of the American Society of Animal Science extends a hearty congratulation to each student for her or his outstanding achievement. May these accomplishments be only a beginning of even greater accomplishments and service to animal agriculture and to humanity.
